APRIL 96

"Build this Dam. We will go to war. And you will die." - Kayapo Indian, Brazil.

AND THEY THINK IT'S ALL OVER...!

This month saw the evictions of all the remaining camps along the route of the proposed Newbury Bypass, and what follows is one persons account of that month.

March in Newbury was an intense month. In an attempt to carry out environmental destruction within the European Environmental Law on bird nesting season, the DoT have made the 'conscientious' gesture of trying to destroy bird nesting sites before they build their homes in them. They announced that work would stop on April 5th, and employed a determined eviction team to blunder through the series of 29ish camps along the 9 mile route (no one ever seemed sure just how many camps there were). Bailiffs, tree surgeons, chainsaw men, 'climbers' and mechanical dinosaurs with hoards of wage slaves, snooping detectives and blind upholders of 'justice' were all employed by the State to evict a determined and innovative force of tree defenders.

The pro-active actions of the early days, where the destroyers were penned in their compounds and hindered in their early morning convoys, gave way to a more defensive mentality as the daily uncertainty of where the eviction posse was going to strike caused rising levels of insanity. They adopted tactics of chaos, dotting around the route, evicting whole camps, half camps, having night time cordons, sending the police on in advance, making ambushes and varying their times of arrival. Every eviction was different.

We developed various tactics and innovative defenses where, as well as the basic walkways and treehouse networks, there were tripods, platforms, tunnels, scaffolding poles extending from the tops of trees and various lock on techniques; and each of these worked with various degrees of effectiveness. Ground lock-ons at the base of trees and barrel lock-ons in the branches were particularly successful, with one tree lock-on lasting for six hours.

Last week a protestor was locked onto a platform attached to surrounding trees with one length of steel cable. Bailiffs scratched their heads a lot and eventually erected a scaffolding tower to get the person down. New ideas are often the best.

Richard Turner's 'climbers' are now all stinking rich, hated by more people than ever and banned from various climbing centres. Meanwhile some of the climbing community have been politicised with many of them having come down to the evictions in Newbury and confronted their soul-selling counterparts in the treetops. In Snelsmore particularly, the battles between climbers on both sides were intense and at least one of Richard Turners employees resigned that day. In general though, most of them seem to be hardening to their job and they are using increasingly unsafe practices and violence.

Despite the decline in media interest, wide support continued, with food, money, materials and visiting activists arriving from all over of the country.

Newbury businessmen declared that a high proportion of them opposed the bypass, and an interfaith gathering at Middle Oak brought people together from all beliefs to pay their respects to nature under attack.

Badgers resisted eviction in their Snelsmore setts and Vertigo Moulinsiana, a very small and rare snail managed to get Rickety Bridge a ten day stay of execution in the High Court. Thousands of baked beans also made their own protest against the bypass with many of them flinging themselves voluntarily out of the treetops and onto the heads of invading climbers.

There have been over 700 arrests during the the last 3 months, and excessive bail conditions have been used against us in an attempt to try and keep people away from the route.

By the last week in March large numbers of people were gathering at Rickety Bridge and what had been one of the last camps to be established became the site for the last big eviction lasting 3 days, with well over 150 people in the trees. This eviction was a little different, as it was no surprise when they arrived, and we welcomed them with the seven dwarves singing "hi ho, hi ho it's off to work we go" blaring over the sound system!

Camelot and King Arthur were evicted on April fools day, followed by the trees at Castlewood and Tot Hill. Mary Hare was saved (actually it turned out that it was off route) and the beautiful Middle Oak has been 'spared' and is now destined to live in the middle of a monster road junction.

All the camps are now evicted, trees lie fallen and funeral fires burn. But off route camps have been set up, sculptures are appearing in the wreckage and people are recuperating their energies. Ding Ding round 2.

So the route is cleared, but strangely none of the contractors are very keen to win the next phase of the contract. Are the DoT being realistic about actually building the road as we hear that they're not doing so well with the M11?

On April 3rd Blandy went to Middle Oak to announce that all the cleared areas were now the property of the DoT, but millions of news viewers across the nation were to see his humiliating retreat from a group of protesters, with his police escort having to run alongside his Landrover to keep up!

If anyone wants to go around to his house for tea and cake the address is: Malthouse Cottage, Nettlebed, Nr Henley on Thames, Oxfordshire. It might also be good to go and visit Richard Turner Ltd at 101 Couple Lane, Old Tupton, Chesterfield, Derbyshire, tel 01246 861 738.

Have a good rest and extended cup o' tea sessions.

Watch out too for the letting of the new contract sometime in April/May, and contact 01635 45544 for further campaign info.

SHELL

More problems with Shell - this time in Turkey. By their own admission they have been polluting the water supply to the Kurdish city of Diyarbakir for over 30 years. Meanwhile 19 Ogoni are still being held in Nigerian police cells on the same charges as the nine Ogoni activists that have already been murdered. There will be a debate on oil in Nigeria at the Royal Geographical Society in London on April 15th (tickets £5) with a speaker from Shell. There is also the Shell AGM in London on May 15th. Anyone with shares (or wanting one) please call 01865 721224. There will also be actions outside. Delta now have a comprehensive newsletter dealing with Shell, the Ogoni and Nigeria, add yourself to the mailing list by calling 0116 255 3223.

EF! GATHERING - NEWBURY

There was supposed to be a National EF! gathering on the weekend of the 22nd- 24th March. Due to the main organiser disappearing (nothing sinister though) this had to be seriously scaled down, leaving many people disappointed. All was not lost as it was Newbury, where there was lots to be done as always. Also on the Sunday a planning meeting for the BIG Summer gathering for the 12th- 18th June took place. By the end of the afternoon it was already looking good with many people volunteering to help out.

Just to say on the subject briefly that it is probably a good idea not to call an action/gathering 'National' unless it had been a decision made by many groups together. That way you will know there are lots of people committed to making it a success/happen. When one person has all the responsibility it can be (and usually is) a little too much and things may not happen thus putting people off attending future well organised events / actions.

EF! SUMMER GATHERING

The site for the EF! international summer gathering is set for a beautiful remote location in North Wales. The exact location will not be publicly announced until the day, but it will be easily accessible by public transport and road. There will be a meeting point a few miles from the site which the location of which will be announced in next months action update. The gathering will be from the 12-18th of June and will provide: training and discussion on direct action campaigning; a meeting point for UK and international activists; practical conservation work and many other events. Money is desperately needed and any fund-raising ideas or donations contact: EF! Gathering, PO Box 7, Cardiff, CF2 4XX. Please make cheques payable to Earth First! Contact 01749 812265 with any offers of help, workshops or distribution of flyers. Contact 0171 249 9114 for general enquiries.

US EF!

At the EF! activist conference held recently in the US, the talk was of how impressed people have been with the Newbury campaign and they are keen to learn from the successes and failures. A roadshow is now being planned in the US to bring over to the UK. The main focus of the tour would be a slide show and actions about rainforest pulp used in England, from British Columbia and "radical eco-music". Any groups/individuals that can help on this side with logistics, organisations and ideas please call Jordan on 206 517 5071 or email to jiks@speakesy.org.

TARMAC AND MOD

Thirty Ministry of Defence police officers joined the direct action against road building last month by occupying offices of Tarmac & Matthew Hall (Amec subsidiary) and seizing documents. Tarmac and Matthew Hall have been accused of "financial irregularities" over the construction of the Coulport nuclear armaments depot (yet another environmentally damaging project) where costs have risen from 58 million to 108 million (of tax payers money).

This is all part of the Trident nuclear submarine development which the MOD overspent on construction costs by 800 million last year & were accused of "mismanagement on a grand scale" by the public accounts committee. The MOD are so concerned that they have set up a phone line for anyone to reveal "irregularities" on multi million pound defence construction! Any dirt anyone? It seems that no-one trusts Tarmac and Amec.

SCRAPPIT

Siston Common & Railway Path Public Info Team are campaigning against the Avon Ring Road Stage II, a route that puts Bristol and Bath's favourite cycle way and footpath under threat. It would wipe out a 1km section of the path, slice Siston Common in half, sever the route of the old railway and destroy an ancient dramway and railway and wildlife habitats. Work should have started in March but SCRAPPIT has filed a legal challenge. The campaign meets every Sunday at 7.30pm at the Kebele vegan centre on Robertson Road, Easton. Funds, activists, ideas and all sorts of support needed especially with court costs. Please help if you can in any way. Contact SCRAPPIT campaign, c/o 84 Colston St., Bristol, BS1 5BB.

LIVE EXPORTS

It has been one year since live exports resumed in Dover and they are still ongoing. Each shipment of animals is met with a demonstration. Unfortunately numbers are not high as local support has been poor, though they have had much needed support from visiting friends. There will be a mass demonstration on the 19th April (the official day to mark 1 year of protests). Please go and show your support. They need as many people as possible, they have to show that this issue will not go away until live exports have been banned. Congregate at Dover Eastern Docks in the morning (from 8am onwards). Parking available at Dover leisure centre, Woolcomber St., Dover, Kent.

BIG GREEN GATHERING

This year it will be taking place between 24-28th July in Wiltshire. Earth First! will be there and taking part with stalls and workshops. Limited number of tickets available at the discounted price of £25 for people on benefits, but remember Earth First! neither condemns nor condones jumping the fence! Contact 01747 870 667 for further details.

FASLANE PEACE CAMP

The camp faces eviction after the new local council refused to renew their lease after pressure from the Roads dept., that say they want the land that the camp occupies to be tarmaced over as part of a road widening scheme. Faslane have a week of action planned from the 22nd-26th of April to remember the Chernobyl disaster. Tel 01436 820901.

GREEN TERRORISM?

The recent front page article in the Guardian newspaper (27th March 1996) reports an alleged attempt by various chiefs of police to request that the anti-terrorist branch starts monitoring green activists. While this may come as a surprise to some (both 'why monitor us we're not terrorists' and 'are we not being monitored already?') it is only the latest in a long line of articles that are trying to push green/direct action and animal liberation activities into the category of terrorism. One purpose of these articles is to try and disrupt our increasingly effective and popular movement by trying to split us into factions along lines that the state sets, in the case of this article, and others before it, between activists that have differing views on violence as a tactic of resistance.

While this article, like others before it, has produced widespread criticism (see for example The Guardian letters column, 30th March 1996) this criticism is not something that we, as radical ecologists, should be joining in with. Our response should not be to play into their hands by denouncing the people in our movement that argue that there is a place for violent resistance in some circumstances nor should it be to lie, as some have, and say that everybody in the green movement is committed to non-violence in every scenario. This article, however, is not to debate the validity of various forms of resistance but to suggest what our response should be to the increasing surveillance and repression that our movement is attracting.

We suggest that our response should be twofold. Firstly, as said earlier, we should not be denouncing people in the movement purely because of different opinions on which tactics to use in defence of the natural world. There is room in this movement for all responses to ecological devastation and we must not divide ourselves on small issues when we agree on nearly everything else. To do otherwise is to play directly into the hands of those that seek to destroy the entire movement. While we should obviously not welcome this increased repression and surveillance we must realise that we are attracting it because we are becoming increasingly effective and popular. If we were ever to evolve beyond a relatively small number of people with comparatively little influence into a mass movement it was inevitable that we were going to attract this type of response from those that put profits before life. In reacting to this increased attention we must not deny our potential as a force for real and lasting change but instead to embrace it and draw up the battle lines between ourselves and those that want to destroy us.

Our second response to these developments should be a reappraisal of our personal and group security. If anybody is in any doubt over the lengths that the state will go to to destroy radical groups they should look at recent history in the United States and the way that groups such as the Black Panthers, The American Indian Movement, MOVE and Earth First! have been treated over there.

At the very least our response should be to assume routine interception of mail, tapping of our phones and investigation by state agencies or private detective firms into individual activists and groups. The most simple measures can make life harder for them. One measure that people can and often take is covering up their faces on actions and demonstrations when cameras are present (for example there were four Special Branch photographers at the Whatley quarry action in December last year). In some cases this is a sensible thing to do but be aware that it can look intimidating and can alienate many people that may otherwise get involved with us. One measure that everybody should be taking is to be far more careful about what is said over or even near a phone. In addition to this people should be trying to use a secure address as a postal contact point. A few simple measures can make it harder to identify activists and to work out where that next action of yours is going to be.

In becoming more aware of our security we need to be careful that we do not fall into the traps of firstly becoming so paranoid that we become inactive and secondly, but equally importantly, we need to make sure that our increased awareness over security matters does not lead to people falsely accusing others of being state infiltrators. Either of these things will lead to mistrust between people and internal disputes in groups, in which case we will have done the work of those that want to destroy us.

WHO ARE EARTH FIRST?

Earth First! is a network of independent groups who believe in doing just that-putting the earth first. It is based on a concept of non-hierarchical organisation, direct action, and the empowerment of individuals to confront the ecological catastrophe facing our planet. The above contacts are groups in this network or groups with a common aim. Let Earth First! Action Update know of any alterations/additions/removals from the list. Alterations from last months are shown in bold and underlined groups may no longer exist. Telephone numbers given for international contacts include UK dialling codes. Please note that the international contacts given are not "in charge" of each country's actions but simply represent a way in to their direct action network.

THE MODERATES ARE MOUNTING A CHALLENGE.

WHAT DO WE WANT? GRADUAL CHANGE WHEN DO WE WANT IT? IN DUE COURSE.

LAND OCCUPATIONS

There is a land occupation in the Sherwood Forest from 23rd April to the 1st May. A major trunk road is planned through the forest joining the M1 to the A1 including 5 industrial developments on the route. Please contact 0585 620714 or The Land is Ours for more info.

The Land is Ours also have a major urban occupation coming up on May 5th, supported by people from all campaigning backgrounds. It will hopefully trigger off a national debate on the subject of Land Reform in cities. The aim is, in the course of a week, to turn a derelict site into a permanent sustainable village for all who want to stay on & help make it work. Coaches leave at 10am, on Sunday the 5th of May from 190 Shepherds Bush Rd., London, W6. For more info please contact The Land is Ours on 01865 722016.

BRIGHTON SQUATTERS FIGHT BACK

The Squatters Estate Agency in Brighton was evicted on 4th March following a previous attempt where bailiffs had been fought off by determined squatters. Not to be beaten, the Brighton crew opened up a new squat called the 'The Coppe Shoppe' at 72 Trafalgar Street just below the station. This new squat is aimed at promoting education in the movement and importantly - providing free tea! Pay them a visit next time you're in Brighton.

ANTI-JSA ACTIONS

On April 1st activists went around various government departments in London distributing leaflets and trying to speak to people on the subject of the JSA. Also on Tuesday 9th April there was a national demonstration in London against the JSA. Approximately 300 people marched from south London to Westminster Hall. After a brief rally in the hall about 150 people left by the back door to visit the conveniently located Department of Employment. 50 people briefly occupied the building and disrupted work. For more info and leaflets about the JSA and how it will effect us and to find out your local Anti-JSA group contact: London Against the JSA, P.O. Box 3140 London E17 5LJ.

RESIDENTS AGAINST THE M74

Activism in Glasgow has been going strong with street blockades and parties in March along with well-attended public meetings. A Schneus style weekly newsheet called Cothrom ('Justice' in Gaelic) has also been set up. One of the main aims of the campaign is to link democracy issues with anti-road and land right campaigns.

A big action is planned for April, contact RAM74 for details 0141 424 1797/423 2823 - Cothrom can be contacted on 0141 226 5066/424 1797 (contact list has address).

RECLAIM THE LAND

A small reclaim the land action took place at York on the 10th of March, at an area of woodland which has just received planning permission to become a shopping centre, selling discount factory outlet goods to consumers who will be expected to drive from up to 70 miles away just to get there!

There will be a much larger land occupation in York from the 5th to the 7th May, to coincide with the action in London. It will be at one of the 5 sites around the ring road which have had planning permission pushed through for traffic inducing 'development' projects in the last few months. Meet at Clifford's tower, York at 12 noon May 5th. Bring spades, guitars, etc. For more details contact York Earth First! on 01904 634073.

EDITORIAL

Oh shit! What have we let ourselves in for taking on the Action Update after Cardiff? As you can see from the change of address it has moved to the 'beautiful' city of London. For your information and to clear up any confusion that may arise the Action Update is not being put out by Reclaim the Streets but by a bunch of London Earth First!ers who, for convenience, are using the RTS post box; so please don't call the RTS office with news/messages for the Action Update! The number to call if you'd like to get in touch is 0171 249 9114.

While we're on the subject, could all groups who are currently on the contacts list get in touch over the next few weeks and say hello. This is partly to confirm you that you still exist, but also to give us an opportunity to check the number of Action Updates you require each month, so that hopefully we can save money on unnecessary printing and postage costs.

With summer, and a number of large events approaching, we'd like to be able to distribute copies of the Action Update to people who may never have seen it before, but we are in desperate need of funds. As you are probably aware, the Action Update is financed entirely by the proceeds of crime, so rob a bank, loot a government building, but please, if you can afford it, send us some money.

And finally...much respect to the Cardiff Action Update crew - you did an excellent job. See you all soon.

MC LIBEL

The McLibel Trial, now scheduled to last until the end of this year, is currently listening to evidence on McDonald's connections to rainforests destruction. Ray Cesca (McDonalds Director of Global Purchasing) said in court that "McDonald's opened the first of it's restaurants in Costa Rica in December 1970" and that the meat supplied to them since that time "comes from ranches in areas which were deforested in the 1950's and early 1960's". Howard Lyman, a fourth generation cattle rancher from Montana (USA), now an environmentalist, recently testified for the defence on the effects of cattle ranching on the environment and the animals.

For those wanting to attend the upcoming Midland Bank AGM as shareholders, please call LAMB ASAP on 0161 274 4665. It is to be held at the Barbican Centre, London on May 31st.

NEW WOMEN PRISONS

At Eastwood Park Prison, near Bristol, the new cells, at 6 ft x 6 ft, are 30% smaller than the prison service's own 1994 guidelines. Cells as small as this were condemned as degrading and inhumane by a Royal Commission in 1878. 56% of women prisoners have mental health problems (Home Office study '91). Such inhumane conditions are bound to increase the already high rate of suicide attempts & self harm among women prisoners. Info on protests /petitions/leaflets telephone 0117 909 9448, Womens International for Peace and Freedom.

TREES FOR LIFE

Due to trees cut for fuel and timber and to convert the land for agricultural use, less than 1% of the huge boreal Caledonian Forest that used to cover much of the Scottish Highlands remains. Trees for life are aiming to restore 1500 square kilometers of the forest to its natural state, including re-introduction of native wildlife such as Wolves. They run volunteer work weeks throughout the year, contact 01309 691292 for info.

RUSSIA

On March 5th, the Rainbow keepers held a peaceful demonstration against a high speed railway. Six of them were arrested. All the action involved was standing by the side of the road. Luckily in this case, it was well covered by media, and police released the activists after 4 hours.

BELGIUM

In Brussels, there was a demo on March 9th in solidarity with the Aspe Valley in the Pyrenees, one of the few remaining habitats of the European Brown Bear. The demo had been forbidden, but this did not stop 250 protesters from showing up. There was no trouble with police.

TAHITI

Two British companies, Granada and Meridian are contracted to market and manage a huge hotel complex which is being built on a site of international archaeological importance in a fragile coral lagoon eco-system. You can express your displeasure by phoning Granada on 0171 451 3000. Meridian are based in Hong Kong but have connections here.
